Prominent figures are expected to meet in the city of Tsukuba, Ibaraki Prefecture, on April 8, for a finance ministers and central bank governors’ meeting.

Several important issues are expected to be discussed at the meeting, which is being held in response to a request from the Group of 20 leaders at the G20 summit in Osaka, Japan, in June. These include how to deal with the current trade dispute and how to promote sustainable growth.

The G20 summit, which was held in Osaka last year, was attended by leaders from 20 countries and regions, including the United States, China and Japan. The summit aimed to address issues such as the ongoing trade dispute between the United States and China, as well as other global economic challenges.

The finance ministers and central bank governors’ meeting is expected to focus on these issues, as well as others such as climate change and financial stability.

In addition, the meeting is expected to discuss how to promote sustainable growth, which is a key issue on the agenda of the G20 leaders. The meeting will also discuss how to address the current trade dispute between the United States and China, as well as other global economic challenges.

The meeting is expected to be attended by finance ministers and central bank governors from around the world, including those from the United States, China and Japan.
